Thurſday, February 28. 1706.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated March 2.

Hildeſheim, February 22.

THE following Letter was written by General Reinſchild the Day after the late Battle in great Poland, in which the Saxons were beaten.

'GOD be prais'd, for having crown'd the Arms 'of the King of Sweden my Maſter with a 'glorious Victory. Yeſterday I gave the Enemy 'Battle, and that ſo ſucceſsfully, that I totally de'feated them, not above 500 of their Foot eſcaping. 'I took 6000 Priſoners, among them above 200 'Officers, and particularly 2 Generals with other 'Perſons of Note. I likewiſe took above 100 Co'lours and 32 pieces of Cannon. In a Word it was 'a compleat Victory. But on our ſide we loſt ſome 'brave Officers, viz. Collonel Lilienhof and Lieute'nant Collonel Croonhielm kill'd outright, and Col'lonel Bouchwald, Lieutenant Collonel Hottenſtedi'die, the Majors Wrangel and Snolski, Captain 'Lode, and ſeveral others mortally wounded. Yet 'there fell but few of our valiant Soldiers. I 'receiv'd no hurt my ſelf, but had a Horſe kill'd 'under me.

From Wahlplantz, Feb. 13. 1706. Charles Guſtavus Reinſchild.

A Letter from General Reinſchild to Queen Catherine of Poland.

Madam,

'A Compleat Victory, which by God's Aſſiſtance 'we gain'd Yeſterday over the Saxons, obliges 'me to ſend in Haſte the good News to your Ma'jeſty. All the Enemy's Foot were intirely de'feated, and all their Artillery taken. Lieutenant 'General Wuſtromirski, with a great Number of 'Officers, and above 100 Colours, 6000 French, 'Swiſs, or Saxon Soldiers, were taken. The 'Muſcovites were almoſt all put to the Sword. 'In a few Days I will ſend your Majeſty a more 'particular Account. In the mean time I congratu'late your Majeſty on the Part you take in this 'Victory, and am with the profoundeſt Veneration.

Your Majeſty's moſt humble and faithful Servant.

C. G. Reinſchild.

From the Harlem Courant, dated March 6.

From the Swediſh Army under General Reinſchild near Wulau, Feb. 17. We have number'd the Enemy's kill'd and taken; the firſt amount to 6000, among them are the Collonels Sachen, Zadler, and Chogenſler; the laſt amount to about 8000, among them are Lieutenant General Woſtromirski, the Major Generals Seidler, Lutzenburg, Maburg, and others, in all 333 Officers. We have alſo taken 70 Colours and 31 Braſs Cannon. The Officers taken Priſoners that are wounded are put into Frauenſtad, and ſeveral are let go on their Parole: General Woſtromirski and Lutzelburg are conducted to Glogau: On our ſide 1200 Men were kill'd and 1300 wounded.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated March 2.

Dreſden, Feb. 19. Yeſterday an Expreſs brought the bad News of the Defeat of our Army that had entred great Poland. The Saxon Horſe behav'd themſelves gallantly at the beginning of the Fight, and repuls'd the Swediſh Horſe; but the latter rallying and returning agen to the Charge, put them to the Rout. Then the Enemy's Foot attacking ours with great Fury, the 3 Battallions of Malleracque, Wackerbaert, and Couſin, who were moſt expos'd to their Fire, threw down their Arms and cried Quarter. The Muſcovites follow'd their Example; our Foot Guards did the like; and moſt of theſe Troops were either put to the Sword or made Priſoners by the Swedes, who alſo took all our Artillery and Baggage.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated March 6.

Dreſden, Feb. 24. We have various Accounts here of the Defeat of our Army in great Poland; among the reſt one from General Schuylenbourg, containing in Subſtance, that the Forreign Troops did not behave themſelves well, that ſome of them refus'd to obey Orders, that others threw down their Arms, and that one Regiment particularly fled without firing a Shot. The Troop of Gentlemen Voluntiers fought very manfully, and conſequently ſuffer'd very much. Their Standard fell into the Enemy's Hands, but they ſav'd their Kettle-Drums. The Artillery taken by the Swedes conſiſted of 24 Field Pieces, for the heavy Cannon was left at Sorau. Orders are ſent to a Battallion of Saxen Weyſſenfels and ſome others to draw to the Frontier of Luſatia, there to form a new Camp. Maj. Gen. Malleracque, who commanded the Regiment of Swiſs in our foretaid Army, is paſs'd through this Place for Geneva Breſlau, Feb. 24. Adjutant General Pflug is arriv'd here from Poland, and reports that he left King Auguſtus his Maſter at Rawitz with 6000 Men; that his Majeſty intended to have joyn'd his Army that was advanc'd out of Luſatia into great Poland, but having receiv'd Intelligencce of their Defeat, had diſpatch'd him the ſaid Adjutant General to General Schuylenbourg, to bid him take Heart agen, for that his Majeſty was ſtill in a Condition to make Head againſt his Enemy, provided his own Troops would be faithful to him, which they had Reaſon to do becauſe he had taken Care to pay them well.

Berlin, Feb. 27. The Report of a great Battle between the Swedes and Muſcovites near Grodno, is now look'd upon to be groundleſs. Yet the freſheſt Letters from Coningsberg and Dantzick adviſe, that General Leeuwenhaupt having joyn'd the King of Sweden's Army near Wilna with 7 or 8000 Men; his Majeſty had reſolv'd to attack the Muſcovite Army in their Intrenchments, coſt what it would.

Hamburg, March 2. Letters from Warſaw of the 18th of laſt Month ſay, that King Auguſtus having Intelligence of the Defeat of his Army which he was about to go to meet, went from thence that Morning, but whither was not known: Yet ſome Letters from Liſſa tell us, that his Majeſty, with a ſlender Retinue, had paſs'd not far from thence and was got beyond the Swediſh Army. They had receiv'd no Letters at Warſaw from Grodno, the Poſt being intercepted ('twas ſuppos'd) by the Swedes. King Staniſlaus and General Stromberg, are march'd with a Detachment towards Cracow. General Reinſchild, having left the Artillery taken from the Saxons in Frauenſtad, and ſent the Priſoners to Poſen, is march'd with his Troops towards Kaliſh. 'Tis advis'd, that 922 of the Muſcovites (moſt wounded) that eſcap'd out of the Battle, were come to Guben; and that ſeveral hundred Saxons with 1 piece of Cannon are arriv'd at Dreſden. All the Advices from Saxony ſay the Inhabitants of that Electorate are under a terrible Conſternation on Account of the great Defeat of their Army in great Poland.

Amſterdam, March 5. Letters from Warſaw of the 19th of laſt Month, ſay King Auguſtus having receiv'd ſome Expreſſes, march'd from thence the 18th before Day-break with 4000 Horſe and Foot, and took his Way towards Lowicz, with what Deſign was not known. They write from Hamburg, that they had receiv'd no Letters from Grodno in 8 Poſt Days, but that they had Advice the King of Sweden lies with his Army between Grodno, Cauen, and Wilna, and keeps the Muſcovites block'd up in and about Grodno.

Plymouth, Feb. 24. Yeſterday came in the Halifax of and for London, with Wine and Fruit from Lisbon: This Afternoon paſt by this Harbour the Exeter, Le-firme, and Squirrel, and ſeveral Tranſports for Ireland. This Evening came in the Triton from Spithead, ſhe engag'd Yeſterday off the Iſle of Wight 2 French Men of War, and had ſome Men wounded.

Harwich, Feb. 26. On Sunday the Diſpatch Pacquet Boat arriv'd here with a Mail from Holland; and Yeſterday the Prince Pacquet Boat ſail'd from hence with a Mail for Holland.
